Parameta Solutions Enhances OTC Oil Transparency with Trusted Real-Time Data

Exclusive, real-time pricing from PVM, ICAP, and TP—delivering transparency and control to OTC oil markets, your way.

LONDON, 1 October 2025 – Parameta Solutions, the data and analytics division of TP ICAP Group, today announced the launch of its enhanced real-time OTC oil market data service, built to give customers a faster, clearer view of global OTC oil markets.

Because most physical and forward oil trading takes place over the counter, transparency is limited and the market remains fragmented. This new service delivers live, broker-sourced pricing from PVM and ICAP with data from TP to follow later this month, making Parameta the only provider with data from three of the world's largest oil brokers.

In fast-moving markets, real-time data isn't a luxury, it's a necessity. We built this service to help clients move faster and make better decisions—powered by real-time, broker-sourced data, all in one place.

Built for Speed. Designed for Precision.

Parameta's real-time service was originally built to solve a long-standing challenge for OTC oil traders: fragmented, delayed, and siloed data. Now, we've turned that challenge into an advantage—structuring the data and licensing it for broader use. Trading platform developers, data scientists, quants, and risk managers can now access information once locked away, so they can build smarter models, enhance platforms, and make faster, better decisions. With a unified, real-time view, these professionals can now harness the speed, precision, and depth they need to build smarter models, enhance platforms, and make faster, more informed decisions.

ANNOUNCEMENT

This launch marks a major step forward in bringing greater transparency to the OTC oil markets—something the industry has long needed. By leveraging the deep expertise of our brokers and the scale of our global energy business, we're helping market participants access real-time, trusted pricing that reflects true market activity.

Across the Barrel, Across the Globe: Real-Time Oil Data, Delivered Your Way

Parameta's real-time oil market data delivers live, broker-sourced mid-prices covering the full barrel—spanning crude, light ends, middle distillates, fuel oil, LPG — sourced from 100+ brokers across 17+ desks in London, Singapore, and Dubai. With multiple validation layers and flexible delivery options, customers can gain instant access to trusted pricing insights through channels they already use streaming via WebSocket, SURFIX, Marketfeed, and EMD; and snapshots via sFTP, S3, Azure, and Snowflake.

Also available via Fusion Insights: TP ICAP's Flagship Intelligence Platform

This real-time data is also live within Fusion Insights, TP ICAP's flagship data intelligence platform, designed to empower financial institutions with real-time, actionable insights across oil markets. By integrating Parameta's broker-sourced pricing into a single, intuitive interface, Fusion Insights enables users to visualize market trends, monitor volatility, and make informed decisions with speed and precision.

With this launch, Parameta Solutions strengthens its position as the go-to source for real-time OTC oil market intelligence, helping clients stay ahead of volatility and seize opportunities in opaque OTC oil markets.
